McDougall—Strang moved the adoption of the report of the finance committee.

On reaching the petition asking for another public meeting to discuss the bridge question the mayor said the meeting of Saturday night had been called to make suggestions to the council. It was now the duty of the council to use their own judgment in selecting the best men to represent them.

J. A. McDougall said that he had formed an opinion on the subject of the petition, and as he had been elected by the ratepayers, many of whom were present and who were very properly showing a keen interest in this question, it was only right that he should express his views. Our claim to the bridge was admitted and the only object to be sought was how to secure it. It appeared that the bridge question was being lost sight of, and that it was becoming a personal matter as between certain delegates. At the public meeting on Saturday there had been no question as to the advisability of sending delegates or as to Mr. Kirkpatrick's abilities. The only question was as to whether others than ratepayers should be allowed to vote on the selection of the delegates. He agreed at the time in the opinion, that strictly speaking, only ratepayers should vote, but as people from the country had been invited to attend and to give their opinions, it was thought to be discourteous to debar them from voting. At any rate the objection was allowed to drop and the vote was taken, the result being in favor of Mr. Kirkpatrick. No doubt Dr. Wilson would have been a good man, but he was not fortunate in being the choice of the meeting. Previous to the meeting of Saturday a meeting of the council of the board of trade with the town council had been arranged for the purpose of preparing resolutions to be submitted to the meeting as was usual in such cases, and the question of the choice of delegates coming up Mr. Kirkpatrick was chosen by the council of the board of trade. A great deal of earnestness had been displayed in the circulation of the petitions now before the council and the statement had been made that Mr. Kirkpatrick's influence in his position as bank manager, might cause men to sign one or refrain from signing the other. He did not believe that Mr. Kirkpatrick was the kind of man to be influenced in his business relations by outside considerations. He would defy him to show ill feeling in his business relations. It was more than his position would be worth. Mr. Kirkpatrick had been the choice of the council of the board of trade, he had been the choice of the public meeting, there was no question as to his suitability for the position, therefore he would uphold the choice made. The delegates would have no light task. He, for one, would expect them to secure the bridge; but their principal business would be at the same time to free the town from the necessity of granting financial assistance to it. Knowing the interests held here by the Imperial bank and how those interests would be enhanced by the construction of a bridge he was sure that Mr. Kirkpatrick would have the assistance of the bank in advancing our claim for the bridge. He therefore moved, seconded by C. Gallagher, That the deputation to Ottawa re bridge, to be composed of Mayor McCauley and Mr. G. R. F. Kirkpatrick, as recommended by the public meeting, be approved by this council and that Mayor McCauley and Mr. Kirkpatrick be appointed by this council as a deputation to go to Ottawa regarding the bridge. Carried.

C. F. Strang said that it was a question of bridge not a question between Wilson and and Kirkpatrick. It was a question that interested the country as well as the town. With a view of adjusting the difficulty of selection he would move in amendment that the delegates be Mr. Kirkpatrick and Dr Wilson. He did this because in conversation with the mayor some weeks ago on this subject he had been informed that the demands of business were such as to almost prevent his going. Dr. Wilson's time was more at his own disposal and he could therefore spare the time that would be required by the delegation in the fulfilment of their task.

J. H. Picard seconded the amendment. He would like to know whether it was intended that the delegates should go down now or later. He understood that the amount would be voted, and the only question was to ensure that the work should go on at once, and not be delayed for three years as in the case of the land office.

The mayor said the intention was to start as soon as possible. He had been informed that the estimates were already prepared and that the amount was not included.

C. W. Sutter said he would like to see the mayor and Mr. Kirkpatrick go to Ottawa as the best men we could send, and would expect them to stay until the estimates had passed the house.

The mayor said that he would be guided in the matter by the majority of the council. If the majority did not want him to go he would be perfectly satisfied to see Mr. Kirkpatrick and Dr. Wilson go; but he knew that many of the ratepayers desired that he should go and although at considerable personal sacrifice, if the council desired it he would go.

The amendment was put and the vote stood: Yeas—Strang, Picard, Ross; Nays—McDougall; Gallagher, Sutter. The motion was then put as on the same vote was declared carried by the mayor.

Mr. Kirkpatrick asked to be heard for a few moments. He had been selected by a public meeting of the people of the town as a co-delegate with the mayor, and had consented. He could not in justice to that meeting have consented to act with another colleague, and had the amendment carried he would have been compelled to withdraw his name. He had learned from Mr. McDougall's remarks that there were people in the town who regarded him as a very contemptible person in that they believed he would use his position for personal ends. He had enemies in the town. There were people with whom he did not wish to be friends. But these were matters entirely personal and outside of business relations. When the dispute as to his being a delegate started he was going to withdraw in favor of Dr. Wilson, but he was requested not to by his friends. He was glad that the present result had been reached, and had no ill feelings against anyone on account of what had been done in this matter, but was sorry that any people in the town thought so ill of him that he would misuse his position for personal reasons.

Strang said that had he had such an opinion of Mr. Kirkpatrick he would not have moved the amendment.

The report of the health and relief committee recommending a by-law to create a board of health was adopted on motion of Sutter and Gallagher.

The auditor's report for the year ending December 31st 1893 was read and referred to the finance committe.

Strang-McDougall, moved that the collector be instructed to advertise, notifying the ratepayers that all taxes must be paid within sixty days, or proceedings will be taken to collect the same.

Picard—Ross, moved that the clerk be authorized to issue an order in favor of G. R. F. Kirkpatrick for $200 for delegation expenses to Ottawa.

Sutter—Gallagher moved that by-laws 73 and 74 be read three times. They were read and passed. By-law 71 was also passed. By-law 74 was for the purpose of borrowing $3,000 from the Imperial bank.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, MARCH 8th, 1894.

THE BRIDGE.

THE question of whether or not it pays to send delegations to Ottawa can generally be answered in the negative, but it seems probable that the present occasion in regard to the Edmonton bridge is one of the exceptions which prove the rule. If Edmonton wants a bridge it would appear that right now is the time to put forth the strongest effort to get it. The matter has reached a stage at which either promises must be coined into facts or must be accepted as valueless. If a delegation is the best way of bringing the matter pointedly to the attention of the government and securing an accession to our demands by all means let a delegation be sent. If any other and better means can be hit upon, or if an equally good and cheaper means can be found let that be brought forward. But if no such means can be suggested let all who believe that a bridge is needed give a united support to the project of a delegation and to the delegation that has been selected. There is more to be lost by disunion than can possibly be gained by any possible superiority of qualifications of one delegate over another. If the government desire any excuse by which to escape from fulfilling the often repeated promises regarding a bridge, that excuse is made ready to their hands if it is shown that we are not sufficiently united to send down a delegation, or if we send a delegation that has not the united support of the people of the town and district.

But while we all recognize that a bridge would be of great advantage to this town and district and aid greatly in the developement of the whole country, there is a tendency on the part of some to over rate the speculative interest which the town in particular has in the proposed bridge. Let it be understood distinctly that the only real interest the town has in the bridge is through the benefit it would be to the country at large. The town as a town does not now and never did depend for its existence or prosperity as a town on the existence of a bridge. The years that have passed since the construction of the railway have proven this. Had this not been the case the town would not be here to-day. These have been years of great comparative prosperity to Edmonton, and there is no reason to suppose that the years to come will alter the comparative standing of the place. But of course with increase of business comes increase of disadvantages in crossing on ferries in summer, and consequently the increase of necessity for the bridge. The general necessity of a bridge for the development of the district is the ground upon which our claim to a bridge rests, and our claim to have it erected at Edmonton rests on the ground that this is at present the most convenient and suitable place for the bridge to be constructed. Up to this point the interest of the town and of the surrounding country is the same. It is only beyond this point that the special interest of the town comes in, and that interest is simply the speculative interest of having the presence of the bridge to centralize business at this point for all time to come, as it would certainly assist in doing. It must be perfectly clear to every one that while the building of the bridge here would almost certainly establish Edmonton permanently as the business centre of the region, at the present time Edmonton is that business centre, and will certainly remain so unless a bridge is built elsewhere or unless some other point is made the railway crossing on the Saskatchewan. Furthermore time is on our side. Every year that matters stand as they are strengthens Edmonton's position, for as the country grows Edmonton does and must grow, and every additional building that is erected or business that is established here is a strong argument in favor of the bridge—that must sometime be built—crossing right here. These facts are set fort to show that although this town has always manifested a deep interest in the question of a bridge it is not a case of bridge or nothing by any means, but merely a case in which if the needs of the country are supplied certain great material advantages will accrue to this place. To secure these advantages most of us are willing to go to a reasonable amount of trouble or incur a reasonable amount of expense. In this bridge matter as in many other public matters it is not necessary to prove that something will go to smash if our point is not gained. At the same time when there is a good opening to secure material advantages by taking a certain course it is for us as sensible business men to take the course that will be most likely to secure those advantages, even at some expense.

JOHN CAMERON, president of the board of trade, wrote to Vancouver recently for information regarding the difference in prices of produce quoted in the market reports of the local newspapers and the Winnipeg Commercial and the prices offered by importers at Vancouver. He was informed by last mail that the quotations appearing in the Commercial were the prices to consumers purchasing by the sack or ton and not the prices paid by importers, not having any necessary relation to the importing prices. The question of the propriety of these quotations has been discussed in Vancouver already, and the majority of the dealers there decided in favor of quoting the selling, not the buying, price. The quotations appearing are only of interest to consumers of produce and convey no information to Northwest shippers; or indeed mislead rather than inform the public.

HAY.

THE suggestions offered towards a solution of the difficult hay question by a correspondent in Fort Saskatchewan, appearing in this issue, are worthy of careful consideration. The first thing to be done is to decide in what townships any regulations are necessary, and then for those townships pass such regulations as will divide the available hay as equitably as possible. The point to be decided is, what proportion of the available hay should each farmer have. This can only be arrived at as the correspondent suggests by allowing a certain quantity of hay for each head of stock to be fed. And the BULLETIN would further suggest that no permits to cut hay for sale be granted until it is reasonably certain that the quantity necessary for home consumption has been provided for. This end might be arrived at measurably by providing that between certain dates in June or early in July, when the hay is nearly full grown and the quantity available is approximately known, only permits to cut for home consumption be granted. This would prevent the evil of men covering areas by permit that might yield very much less or very much more than the estimated quantity, as occurs frequently when permits are granted early in the season before the growth of the hay is known. Then, after the latter date mentioned, when it would be reasonably certain that the hay required for cattle had been apportioned, let permits be granted to cut hay for sale if any hay remains, and charge no fee per ton, or if a fee is charged let it be merely nominal, say 10 cents a ton, just enough to cover expenses of issue of permit and bookkeeping. The question is a most difficult one and liable to unnumbered complications no matter how it is attempted to be arranged, but it should not be forgotten that its difficulty arises chiefly from its great importance, and that there is no question that deserves more careful consideration both from the farmers themselves and those in authority than this question, particularly in this district where the cattle interest is so large, and is so entirely dependent for its success on the supply of hay.

FORT SASKATCHEWAN ALBERTA.

The "BULLETIN'S" leader on hay, of 1st instant, is full of good horse sense, and meets with general approbation. What the writer would suggest would be to name off the townships which are thickly settled on—give each settler a free permit (charging 25c for issuing) for so many tons for the use of his own stock, grading the amount according to the number of head of stock. Charge 25c per ton for hay put for sale, otherwise the grasping neighbor is going to cut all the hay he can, and what he knows he cannot use personally, he will sell—leaving out some other neighbor from cutting hay necessary for his stock, and compelling said neighbor to travel a distance to secure sufficient hay for his personal use—owing to the first having grabbed the lot. If this matter is not arranged prior to the haying, the whole of the Territories will find that there will be endless trouble for the magistrates, and bad feeling worked up among neighbors, who at the moment are on good terms. The department of the interior must have some control over this question. While on this hay business, the writer would offer another suggestion, which would be a benefit to the settlers. Namely: Could the department not empower certain justices of the peace in different parts of the country, to issue hay permits, sending each a township plan showing what portion of it came under their separate jurisdiction?

A number of land seekers have already been here. What are the department of the interior going to do about a land office at Beaver lake before the real rush sets in, and to avoid the chaos which existed two springs ago, owing to want of forethought.

GENERAL NEWS.

Premier Haultain addressed a public meeting in Macleod on Saturday, Feb. 24th, dealing with Northwest questions. D. W. Davis M.P. chairman.

The Tyrrell brothers are preparing a detailed account of their adventures near Hudson's Bay to be published in book form in London, New York, and Canada. It will be profusely illustrated from the 1,000 or more kodak views which they took, and will be an interesting record of a wonderful journey.

The Morden, Man., board of trade recently wrote to President Van Horne regarding a reduction in the rates on grain, in which they said: "We cannot close our eyes to the fact that the farmers of this district are not holding their own—that they are decreasing in that material prosperity which characterized the first few years of Manitoba's existance. * * * * The time has arrived through the decline of wheat values in the markets of the world when it is found impossible to obtain a decent living in Manitoba, and pay the present rates for freightage." Mr. Van Horne replied at at length, the substance being that the profits of the railway were falling off and that present rates were necessary in order to keep the railway from going into the hands of a receiver. The present depression would give way to an era of prosperity in time. No prospect of a reduction was held out.

THE BULLETIN is read more generally throughout the Edmonton district than any other paper.

A newspaper is not a producing industry, but if properly conducted it assists and stimulates production and progress more than any other single agency of like cost. Money spent towards the support of a newspaper is almost entirely spent within the town in which the paper is published and is therefore not lost to the business of the town.

The local newspaper represents the district in which it is published to the outside world.

Support your home paper liberally if it deserves support, so that it can give the best possible impression of your town and district as a field for immigration and investment.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD.

A meeting of the trustees of Edmonton public school district was held in St. Geo. Jellett's office on Tuesday evening, all members present, M. McCauley in the chair.

The following accounts were passed:

A. M. Campbell, salary		$100 00
G. J. Welbourn,	"	66 66
L. M. Osborne,	"	50 00
Miss Lindsay,	"	45 83
R. Wylie,	"	22 16

C. W. Sutter, rent		5 00
Edmonton Bulletin		6 50
S. Witmer		1 50
J. Linner		12 00
		$354 65

G. J. Welbourn, first assistant teacher, explained that when he accepted the position of teacher he believed that he held a certificate recognized under the regulations of the board of education—2nd class Ontario professional. Within the past few days he had found out from a perusal of the regulations that only such certificates granted since 1886 were recognized by the council of public instruction, and his certificate was dated in 1885. On becoming aware of the facts he had at once informed the head of the education department of them, and took the present opportunity of informing the board of trustees. If his engagement should result in the proportion of school grant made on his account being withdrawn he would feel in honor bound to make the loss good.

The secretary was instructed to write the board of education explaining the circumstances of the case, and the belief of the board that Mr. Welbourn had acted in good faith; and also stating that as the board of trustees had never received a copy of the regulations bearing on the case they could not know that they were being contravened.

McDougall—Cameron moved that Miss Osborne, 2nd assistant, be allowed to dismiss the small pupils attending her department at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

McDonald—Cameron moved that copies of all regulations and necessary papers furnished by the council of public instruction be asked for by the secretary.

SOUTH EDMONTON BRIDGE MEETING.

A meeting was held at South Edmonton in the Hotel Edmonton by the citizens of the town to discuss the question of a traffic bridge over the Saskatchewan between the two towns and also to discuss what action be taken in regard to the delegation proposed to be sent by the town of Edmonton to Ottawa. F. H. Sache in the chair, W. Wilkie secretary of the meeting.

Mr. Thos. Anderson read to the meeting his report on the soundings, banks and approaches of the river which he was requested to make some years ago by the minister of public works then in office.

Messrs. Gainer, Wilson and Cap. Dawson spoke of the advantages of a traffic bridge between the two towns.

Mr. McKenzie said a traffic bridge was wanted by us on this side (South Edmonton) but more so by the town on the north side (Edmonton). But it would principally benefit the district in general.

Proposed by Mr. Mackenzie and seconded by Mr. Racine. "That in the opinion of this meeting a traffic bridge across the Saskatchewan is an urgent necessity, and in order to facilitate the building of the bridge a petition be circulated requesting the government to erect same across the river. Carried.

Wm. Jarvis moved, seconded by W. I. G. Dickson that the bridge to be of service to South Edmonton must be at a certain point, that point to be specified in the petition viz: The site recommended by Gouin C. E. and Mr. Anderson, on Hudson's Bay Company reserve at Fourth Street. Carried.

Mr. H. Wilson suggested that some of the gentlemen here from the north side be heard in regard to the views of their town as to the site of bridge.

Mr. Fielders Edmonton, said he had heard nothing said as regards the site.

Mr. Lines here stated that at the meeting in Edmonton it was decided that the delegates should not mention a site for the bridge.

It was proposed by Mr. Cossar and seconded by Mr. H. Wilson, that a copy of the resolution be forwarded to the town council of Edmonton for Wednesday evening meeting. Carried.

It was proposed by Mr. Gainer and seconded by Mr. Holliday, that this meeting of South Edmonton citizens request Messrs. Osler, Hammond & Nanton to confer with the Edmonton delegates and meet them at Ottawa on a date to be afterwards fixed regarding the question of the traffic bridge. Carried.

It was proposed by Mr. Wilson and seconded by Mr. Dickson that a committee be appointed to draft a petition, in the matter of a traffic bridge, and that Messrs. Mackenzie, Wilson, Ritchie and Wilkie be such committee. Carried.

After a vote of thanks to the chairman the meeting closed.

A Toronto dispatch says: Grand Trustee Locke, of the Patrons, says they expect to have thirty seats in the legislature and will give Mowat an independent support if he adopts their platform. If he refuses, they will offer to support the Conservatives on the same conditions. They hope to hold the balance of power, and expect to work on the same line in the Dominion house.
